

From: Stevemiller4lv@aol.com
To: undisclosed-recipients@null, null@null
Subject: Tarkanian's authority raped
Date: Aug 2, 2006 12:45 PM
Attachments: oscarandsteveinstreet.jpg insidevegascolumnist.jpg

Tarkanian's authority raped

The Las Vegas City Council -- led along by the mayor -- just disenfranchised the citizens of Ward One, but more important, discredited its' council representative Lois Tarkanian weeks before she is expected to demand the permanent closure of the Crazy Horse Too.

Mayor Goodman turned off the microphone when Tarkanian's attorney Charles Thompson was explaining that 16 other options made more sense, but the one that removed the majority of acres of presently uninhabited billion dollar redevelopment projects was chosen over other options that affected current citizen population.

Redistricting is supposed to be based on population, not Fremont St. casinos, and highly valuable vacant acreage being turned into high rises.

Goodman said the redistricting was based on "seniority and desire." "That's the way the political process works, whether people like it or not." Tarkanian has been on his council for less than three years.

Judge Fred Kessler today inferred Tarkanian lied when she publicly said he told her that her gerrymandered ward was political payback from her council colleagues, meant to teach her a lesson: (http://www.reviewjournal.com/lvrj_home/2006/Jul-27-Thu-2006/news/8729501.html).

When Tarkanian asked Kessler to clarify what he told her in her office, he replied that he may have told her the redistricting was "political," but could not recall telling her anything about being taught a lesson.

Tarkanian reiterated that she will stand behind what she previously said Kessler told her and her aides, and that they made careful notes during the meeting.

Chuck Gardner, an attorney representing Ward One resident Jim Rogers, told the council that they will feel Mr. Roger's wrath for their unfair actions.

Tarkanian infuriated Goodman in July 2005 when she called for an investigation of his former client Billy Walters, and again when rumors began that she was going to move to permanently close the Crazy Horse Too; a topless bar owned by a number of former and present Goodman and Chesnoff law firm clients.

Tarkanian stated that the City received 1084 calls and letters in opposition to today's action. No mention was made of whether the two attorneys present at today's hearing are going to file a writ to reverse the council's action through judicial review. - SM

Submitted at City Council
Date 8/2/06 Item Citizens Participation

From: Stevemiller4lv@aol.com
To: undisclosed-recipients@null, null@null
Subject: A good deed gone awry - Homeless being poisoned
Date: Aug 2, 2006 11:00 AM
Attachments: FoodForTheHomeless.jpg

A good deed gone awry - Homeless being poisoned

A picture worth a thousand words:

KVBC TV, Channel 3 News posted the above photo on their website today showing what appears to be a cruel joke.

The good Samaritans who go to parks every morning giving sweets to persons in questionable health, are a worse menace than those they feed. They might as well be giving the park dwellers cigarettes and booze. - SM

If you would like to un-subscribe to these sometimes-too-frequent E-Briefs, REPLY with REMOVE in SUBJECT